Since the 2001 Anthrax Attacks the U.S. Government alone has spent more than $50 billion of "bio-defense".

Biological warfare, once the domain of secret government programs, is becoming a profitable enterprise for corporations, universities and armed forces worldwide. New and virulent pathogens are being brought to life in secret labs using the latest advances in nanotechnology and genetic engineering, paving the way for such horrors as 'ethnic specific germ weapons', never-seen-before 'designer-bugs' and emerging new epidemics.

This research is now being conducted, with little oversight, by corporations and private labs – in possible violation of international treaties and U.S. law.

As we outline in the book the Sunshine Project, the only independent organization dedicated to monitoring the activities of the burgeoning industry was forced to close shop in February 2008 due to a lack of funding.
